How many examples do we need of so-called "progressive" interference directly resulting in lower worker wages, lack of available housing, and reduced employment opportunities before legislative democrats and their overwhelmingly liberal state-agency minions stop meddling in things that they simply don't possess the capacity to understand or the willingness to listen to those who do?

The negative unintended--but entirely predictable--consequences of effectuating the democrat's socialist ideology is infinite and growing each day with every private business that shuts down or leaves Oregon, every migrant worker who chooses other trades over farming because of the democrat's wage and other farm rules, and the continual erosion in support for the democrat party in general. You just don't get it and you're not even pretending to try anymore. Maybe it's time that you should.
