I have many friends who live in these parks, and do not own the land. They are truly at the mercy of whmever owns the land. Very often things start out well, but after many yeqrs, the whole "Park" is sold, and then the problems begin. The people I know are on very fixed incomes. On top of everything, we are now faced with the Fed. Gov. enecting cuts to all types of programs that will surely impact this level of houseing. Even 6% is a lot to increase each year. Yes, upkeep is expensive too. So it is hard to find a way to work on this. But this is a standrd that may help. Probably it will have to be revisited in the future.

Thanks for all the effort you make for folks.
